SCOUTS FURNISHED EVENING OF FUN

The Panama Scouts were served a complimentary supper by the American Legion and Auxiliary at Legion Hall, Wednesday evening. A menu of New England baked beans, brown bread salads and dessert gave the visitors a relish of real country life. About one hundred were seated at the tables.

Later in the evening the Scouts put on a stage entertainment and the doors were open to the public. This drew a capacity house. The setting was a playlet entitled "School Days" and included a collection of witty local jokes, burlesque stunts and other interesting capers. Sea Scouts demonstrated the system of boxing used by the natives, who make both hands and feet do effective work in the ring.

The show lasted two hours and kept the spectators highly entertained. Many encores were given in response to generous applause. Mr. Carroll, one of the assistants, is a veteran minstrel performer and was in charge of putting the show together and getting it across. He appeared in a singing number that introduced many local hits and humorous verses.

AUTO ACCIDENT, RETURNING FROM PORTLAND

On Wednesday afternoon, a party including F. W. Sanborn, Mrs. Cora E. Twitchell, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Leavitt, with Walter C. Smith at the wheel, went to Portland and visited the Convict Ship. On their return, coming via Harrison, when they reached the stretch of road this side of Twin Bridges, they went to pass a car, the front wheel hit a rock, blowing a tire, and the car went down the incline among the rocks.

Mrs. Twitchell received a cut on her head and had to have several stitches taken. Mrs. Leavitt's knee was injured but it was found no bones were broken. The rest of the party were not injured except for a few bumps and bruises.

The accident happened about 5 o'clock and it was nine before the wrecked car could be hauled out. Hosmer of the Norway Auto Co., with the wrecker, and Charles Thurlow with a pair of horses did the job. It was found the car was not so badly damaged as thought and it will be repaired.

Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Kimball of White Plains, N Y., arrived in town, Monday, for their annual vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Ridlon of Lewiston were guests of his uncle, Charles F. Ridlon and wife, Sunday.

Bearded Davids Will Show Here

The Unique Team of Whiskered Players Will Appear Against the Norway-Paris A. A. Greatest Drawing Card on the Circuit

Not Santa, but the House of David ball players will do their stuff aganist the Norway-Paris team at County Fair Grounds Friday, July 29, at 6 p. m. D. S. T.

Barbers are unknown, in the House of David, for whiskers are a treasure and fit into the scheme of things, especially in athletics. Whiskers or no whiskers, the ball team coming is one of the strongest and noted organizations on the road, having played about everything of importance from major leagues to promising material from sand lots.

Manager Plummer was fortunate in securing this gold medal attraction and may draw on some of the Pine Tree League teams for exra players. He wants to give the whisker loving gentlemen a good run for their money, also to provide a genuine ball game for the fans.

This is an expensive show and a good paying gate will settle the bills and give a nest egg for other exhibitions.

The Davids, with the long hair, are not made-up comedians for vaudeville entertainment, but are living their religious tenets on the hair question and have no knowledge of shears or razors. They can play ball with the virility of that ancient Sampson, who also took pride in long hair, and knocked out Philistines and not home runs.

A large attendance will boost the Norway-Paris team and jingle the coin in the till.

Norway-Paris 9; Lisbon Falls 1

The Norway-Paris outfit passed out rough stuff to the Lisbon Falls Lemons in that town, Monday afternoon. Jimmy Cole shook the plum tree for four hits and three runs, while Rowe found a double and "Pidie" Purington smashed away a three-bagger.

Lisbon was goose-egged for five innings. The solitary run in the sixth was earned on a double and single. Summary:

NORWAY-PARIS KIWANIS CLUB APPEALS FOR YOUR ASSISTANCE

A club of sixty to seventy men in these two communities are banded together with their chief object to aid the boys and girls of Norway-Paris who are unfortunate, especially in the matter of health. During the past three years, about fifty have been operated on for throat and nose troubles. So far this year fourteen have been cared for which the doctors say were very bad cases. Had it not been for the club, they could not have been helped. A check up has been made of those operated on previous to this year and a decided improvement in health and improved marks at school is shown. This Spring about forty undernourished children were given school lunches by the club, assisted by the Red Cross. Improved weight resulted. These things all cost money and our work will have to stop for this year, unless more funds are obtained for, like everything else, our income has been materially reduced.

Afternoon and evening, Tuesday, Aug. 2, at Norway Opera House, we present for your patronage a motion picture of the Byrd Antarctic Exposition and lecture by Lieut. Charles E. Lofgren, personal aide to Admiral Byrd. Lieut. Lofgren also brnigs with him one of the dogs born near the South Pole. This will be highly instructive, both as to the picture and to hear from Lieut. Lofgren his personal experiences of that great adventure.

The proceeds received by the club will be used for the work told above. We believe you are interested in and want this continued. Will you come and have others?

—L. F. Pike, President.

Miss Irene Adams of Westbrook is a guest this week of Misses Thelma and Nathalie Kimball.

Olney J. Burgess left, Tuesday, for Wallingford, Vermont, where he has a position with the American Fork & Hoe Co. He will move his family in a few weeks.

A Norway cast that played the comedy drama "Are All Men Liars?" last winter, will repeat the show in the Grange Hall at Bryant's Pond, Friday evening of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Davenport, his mother, Mrs. Edward Davenport and brother Richard, of Tuxedo Park, N. Y., have been spending a week at Lake Pennesseewassee. Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Davenport visited her mother, Mrs. Orin L. Stone, a portion of the time.

C. R. Henderson of Elizabeth, N. J., has recently completed his camp on the east side of Pennesseewassee Lake and named it "The Century", it being the one hundredth camp on the lake. Reg. Dinsmore, Harry Greenleaf and sons were the builders.

A very pleasant dinner party was enjoyed Sunday, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Goodwin. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Burgess, Mrs. Cora Twitchell, Mrs Madlyn Johnson and two children, Jeanne and Bobby, making thirteen in the party.

Pine Tree League

Norway-Paris 4; Livermore 3

It took eleven innings to settle the argument at Livermore Falls when the visitors from Norway and Paris tied a 3-2 score in the ninth and broke the dead lock in the eleventh.

The game was a squeeze from the start with runs at a premium. Livermore worked a runner across in the second inning on singles by Waite and Fournier.

After this both teams drew blanks until Livermore cleaned up a pair in the eighth making the long end of a 3-1 score. The N. & P.'s by timely hitting and Livermore misplays scored one in the seventh eighth and ninth for the tie.

"Chet" Pratt and "Babe" Pelletier and Lefty Fisk, strong arm hurlers, enjoyed a pitcher's dual with honors equally distributed. Chet had the edge for he went the full distance at top speed and finished in excellent form. Summary:

HOW ABOUT THE THREE-QUARTER CENTURY CLUB TRIP?

The Three-Quarter Century Club meeting is Tuesday, August 2, at Skowhegan fair grounds. As yet no provision has been made for transportation from Norway. If anything is to be done, right now is the time and action must be fast.

The Kiwanis Club handled the problem for two years and did excellent work but this year their activities and finances have been for other branches of community work. Possibly individuals or the Board of Trade might sponsor the project and secure transportation.

To know how many could go and to find out the number of cars which might be donated it has been suggested that the names be sent to Frank E. Decoster, secretary of the Board of Trade or to Philip F. Stone, the postmaster. This is only a suggestion and if others will go ahead with the plans, so much the better.

Immediate action is necessary in any event.

DOUBLE WEDDING

A pretty double wedding took place Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the parsonage of the Norway Methodist Church. The contracting parties were Leo H. Langway and Evna Prouty and Warren H. Gale and Miss Anita M. Langway all from Charlton, Mass.

The single ring service was used by Rev. W. W. Lyon, the attendants were Mrs. Marion Luce and Raymond Langway of Waterford.

The newlyweds are visiting in Waterford a few days before returning to Charlton.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Rice, who are spending the summer at North Waterford, were at their home on Cottage St, the last of the week. Their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Rice, from Bristol, Conn., were with them.

A blazing Ford truck at Ralph L. Sturgis' garage caused an alarm to be sounded at Box 28, Beals Tavern corner just before 2 o'clock, Saturday afternoon. Workmen were cleaning the truck with gasoline in the yard close to the building when the fluid burst into flames. Chemical extinguishers about the garage failed to subdue the fire which spread to a fence. Sam Martin, who was in the cab, made a hasty exit and escaped serious burns. The pumper crew laid a line of hose from Danforth street, but was used only on the fence. Chemicals had no effect but shutting off the gas line to the engine had the desired effect. Damage confined to the truck was estimated at $200.

Albert J. Stearns is having two weeks vacation from his duties as chairman of the Public Utilities Commission at Augusta and is spending much of the time at Camp Stearns at Kezar Lake, Lovell. His sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Stone and two children of Indianapolis, Ind., are having two weeks vacation. Mr. and Mrs. Stearns and Mrs. Stone have been on a three days trip to Lakewood and Bar Harbor, as Col. Stearns attended the Public Health Session at Lakewood, Thursday, and Saturday they were present at the dedication of the Mount Cadillac road. During their absence, Mr. Stone and his sister, Miss Beatrice Stone, were at Lovell at the cottage.

Drama at Opera House

Mystery in the Silent Answer

Who killed Prof. Jago? was a question that held the attention of a small audience at Norway Opera House, Saturday evening, during three acts of the mystery drama "The Silent Answer."

This was a typical murder story, baffling and gruesome at times, but cleverly developed to a climax.

A number of suspects made the thrill and gave material for the resourceful Police Inspector to work on. Witty lines and a light vein of comedy relieved the tension at the right time.

The entertainment was produced by Roger Wheeler of Boston's Copley Theatre Company now on a summer tour through Maine and New Hampshire. In the company were Francis Compton, Felice Leeds, Gerald Rogers and other Copley Theatre stars.

AUTO ACCIDENT

Rev. Orin A. Stone, pastor of the Universalist Church in Methuen, Mass., is lying with a broken hip and encased in a plaster cast at the Brunswick Hospital. This was the result of an auto collision near Bath last week, when with Miss Mary Jones of Norway, who was driving, their car was crowded off the road by a speeding autoist, who is also in the Brunswick hospital and is charged with reckless driving. The three people were hurled from their cars by the impact, Mr. Stone being the most badly hurt. Miss Jones suffered multiple bruises on her body and face besides being severely shaken up. The driver of the speed car has a broken knee cap.

The beaches of Florida have been brought to Maine, their products are in the window at Fletcher's Candy Store. Shells, coral, horse-shoe crabs, sea beans, sponges, a sea horse and other curiosities are there. Many shells have been made into the likeness of animals, men and flowers, by Mr. and Mrs. John Fletcher, who gathered the articles last winter. Necklaces of beans and curious things are a novelty to Maine natives not having opportunity to see the things in their Florida setting.

White Mt. Trip

Panama Scouts Kept in Action

The Panama Scouts enjoyed a trip to the White Mountains, Sunday, as guests of the Legion and their friends. The route was through Gorham, N. H., to Franconia Notch and the Old Man of the Mountain was photographed and admired. They back-tracked to Twin Mts., thence to Crawford Notch. Lunch was eaten at the Willey House and hot tea made for the Panama chaps. The trail continued through North Conway, N. H., Fryeburg, Bridgton, then to the camp ground.

Automobiles with a driver were donated by Guy Rowe, Philip Stone, Mrs. Alfred J. Dyer, John Flynn, Ralph Hascall, Walter Poindexter, Roy Snow, Ralph Sturgis, Ripley & Fletcher, George F. Hill and Steve Klament.

All who provided cars were invited to supper Tuesday at the camp ground as special guests of the Scout Troop.

On Thursday, a picked squad, who are registered under the banner of W. H. Stone Post, American Legion, will enter the water events at Winthrop. This is held under the auspices of the Winthrop Legion.

Forty additional blankets were furnished the boys this week. Cool nights made the beds uncomfortable and many have shivered under insufficient covering brought to Maine. The boys realize a wide range in night temperature exists between Norway and Panama, but they are game and are getting so they like it.

A ball game for charity was the attraction at the Fair Grounds, Thursday afternoon. Fred Baker and Paul Hosmer gathered a choice cluster of players called All Stars and went after the regular line-up of the Norway-Paris Pine Tree Leaguers. Everything was in favor of the League performers during six innings, with the score 9 to 1 against the All Stars. The next two innings was a go-as-you-please circus stunt. During this piece of fun the Stars climbed rapidly with the game ending 14 to 11 in favor of the Stars. The official scorer, Ralph Sturgis, clicked like a lawn mower while checking down runs, hits and errors. Paul Hosmer was the iron horse in the box stall for the Stars.

Heard and Seen at Advertiser Office

Up in Norway, Me., a road sign reads, "Richardson Holler", which does not sound just right somehow.—North Penn Reporter, Lansdale, Pa.

Mrs. Edith Day of Oxford was the lady who lost the small brown purse containing around $12, advertised in last week's paper. She was pleased to find it and spoke a good word for Roy Bennett, who brought it in to find the owner.

The dance, Friday, at Hobson's pavilion in Lynchville as a benefit for the North Waterford fire department was a social and financial success. In response to many calls another will be held there Friday night, July 29 with Shaw's orchestra as usual. The crowd want plenty of contra dances and get them at this old fashioned gathering.

Reports current throughout New England papers show a trend to increased business. Many of the mills in New England show improvement, some closed factories are opening up and others putting on more operators, in several places increases are from 200 to 2,000, truly a good sign for better business.

This is the season for the summer tourist and the summer visitors. Our lake is doing its share in entertaining and the cottages are well filled. Much of the day the lake is dotted with motor boats, canoes and the old time row boat. Along the shores in many places swimming is popular these hot days.

A young man from Waterford called Wednesday afternoon anl asked: "Are the papers out?" "No, they won't be printed till tomorrow afternoon." "How is that, don't you print them Thursdays?" "Why, yes," we hesitated, "we print them on Thursday afternoon but today is Wednesday." "Ah," says he, "that's one on me," and jumped into his auto and was off.

Several correspondents as well as F. W. Sanborn, complain that the envelopes being used for the regular news letters by the correspondents are too small. Yes we know they are and soon we will have some larger ones but these smaller ones are some we have on hand and in these days of economies will have to be used up before new ones are purchased.

A chicken with four legs has been a curiosity in the flock scratching around the poultry yard at Mrs. Sadie Frost Kennerson's. The extra pair grew on the body near the regulation set but were useless for digging worms and other feed. The freak lived three weeks, then gave up this life. There wasn't work enough for four legs.

Mrs. George Hancock picked a flower, name unknown to her. The office curator could not offhand recall the name and Walter Bacon, authority in such matters, was consulted. He gave the name and easy method of identification as follows: "Annual Sow-thistle (Sonchus arvensis). May be distinguished at once from the other two species of Sonchus by the glandular-pubescent involucre."

Miss Elsie Anderson has received a letter from her niece, Mrs. Conard B. Rheiner, who with her husband, Rev. C. B. Rheiner, are on a European trip. The letter was written just before landing at Plymouth. She told of a fine ocean trip. They were not sick in the least and enjoyed the journey immensely, meeting many interesting travelers. Most of the party return on the same boat and they are planning a reunion for the home trip.

E. F. C. Green has a conundrum nearly solved. The other day (July 12) he came to the village, and during the time he was gone someone entered his home at Norway Center and took his clock. It was an old fashioned one of brass, one he has had for many years. He says: "it looks suspicious, I think (calling the name) took the clock. I'll wait and see if he doesn't return it. If not something will be doing."

A Norway lady called up on the phone Wednesday and said, "Put a piece in the paper calling attention to the fact that someone stole my daughter's dress while in swimming at Norway Lake, near the schoolhouse Her clothes were left together, but when she came in from swimming, the dress and belt were gone and she had to come home in her bathing suit. Whoever took it knows who it belongs to and I want it returned."

"Ain't good for nothing," is the way Sumner Skillings of Bolster's Mills puts it. "One leg is shorter than the other and I get tired easily. I'm over here today (Wednesday), to see a 'rubbing doctor', he gives temporary relief and I feel better for a while. I expect to buy fur this fall, even if I can't follow a line of traps as in years past." It seemed to us that Mr. Skillings rather overstates his infirmities as he was looking handsome and stepping along at a fair rate of speed.

Charles K. Gurney of Wakefield, Mass., called Saturday morning. Mr. Gurney has been spending a few days with the Downings on Pleasant St., and also spent Friday with his cousin, Kenneth C. Gurney at his cottage at Keewaydin Lake, East Stoneham. It has been thirteen years since his last visit here and he remarked something like this: "The village looks better and better every time I come here. The houses look well cared for, paintd and trim, and the lawns also look good, the place looks prosperous. The same applies to the surrounding territory for I have been visiting around through North Bridgton, the Waterfords, Sweden and the Lovells. There seems to be no places of extreme poverty—They look well kept."

The roads in and about Norway are in fine repair at this season. With the addition of more tarred roads connecting with other good roads, give to all a chance to enjoy a trip into new territories, where before the roads were not so good. The addition of the black surfaced road almost to Hebron and from East Waterford to Waterford Flat to Keoka Lake are new this year. Bolster's Mills also has some new black road. Before long the new road which goes by Bear Pond in South Waterford will be connected up with North Bridgton and give a good route into North Bridgton. The road to Harrison is still in bad shape, suffering for want of a binding surface of tar. No road in this vicinity will bring more rejoicing than will the Norway-Harrison road, when the day arrives that it will become a good hard surfaced road. It is the main direct connecting road west and will be one of the most used roads in this vicinity when it becomes added to the list of black surfaced roads.

Chapter IV

Harry Makes Some Important Movements

On the corner of Main and North streets, before described, was a large, two story and a half building, owned by Horace Thompson. It once had on the lower floor a store and post office with rooms on the second story for offices. But the center of business as frequently happens, having changed and the post office moved, the building was then vacant and Harry purchased it and put some carpenters at work, making such repairs as he desird on the second and third floors. Four rooms two fronting each street, for offices, with two apartments in the rear and overhead, for his own use and friends in case they should be needed.

Having drawn a plan of the changes to be made and given directions to some painters to put a fresh coat of paint, with brown trimmings upon the outside and enamel inside, when the work was done, Harry started for Boston expecting to be gone a week or ten days. His purpose was to induce a lawyer and a surgeon—young men of ability and skillful training—just ready to enter upon the practice of their profession to go to Conniston Falls to settle. The next day after arriving in Boston he went to the office of Hon. Francis Adams, then one of the leading lawyers of the city, and told him his errand and asked him whether he knew of such a young lawyer as he desired that he would recommend. He replied that he did and whose name was Robert Evans. That the young man had read law in his office and had just graduated at the Harvard School of Law and was there for the day. That Evans was unusually smart, a student, self reliant, but not puffed up with his own importance, though he was a good speaker.

After hearing what the great attorney said Harry asked if he hadn't better go out to Cambridge and see him. The lawyer thought he had better do so. Obtaining Evans' address and where he would be likely to find him, Harry boarded a street car and went there. He found Evans to be all that the able lawyer had recommended so far as appearances went—a handsome fellow with pleasing and attractive manners. Harry spent the rest of the day and evening with him, going over the situation, population and business of Conniston Falls, and the important fact that there was but one lawyer in the place and he in his dotage. All this seemed favorable and it was decided that Evans would go home with Harry when he went and look over the situation for himself. Harry confided to Evans that he wanted to get also a young physician who liked surgery, to settle at Conniston Falls, and Evans said he knew just the fellow and if he wished he would go with him the next day and interview him. This was done, Evans having pressed Harry to stay with him at his rooms over night.

They went to the medical department of the college and called on Dr. John Vose, the dean of the school, and learning Harry's errand, he recommended the young man Evans had in mind, Mark Harris, who had just got his diploma and had great taste for surgery with the nerve judgement and ability to perform critical operations. They hunted Harris up and Harry finding that he had the bearing of a gentleman, with easy, quiet ways and a thoughtful cast of countenance, which he believed, indicated with age and experience the model surgeon and physician, he opened to him his proposition of his settling in practice at Conniston Falls.

After going over the advantages of the place as he had done with Evans, Harris said that the idea struck him quite favorably, but he would like to see the village and look it over before he finally decided. This was a reasonable decision, and it was settled that as Harry wished to have two or three days in Boston for the transaction of some private matters, that both the young men should meet him at the North station on the following Saturday afternoon and go home with him for the week end. This was urged by Harry, for he wanted them to decide for themselves where they should have their offices, rooms and boarding places.

Accordingly Saturday afternoon saw the three young men on the train for Worcester, where they boarded another train which landed them at Conniston Falls, early in the evening. Harry took them to his rooms at the hotel and after supper they went for a stroll through the principal streets, where they had the opportunity to see the town by artificial light and the inside of the business places from the street they were on, giving the visitors the best impression possible of what the place was and its general business.

On Sunday forenoon, Harry took the two young men with him to church. Curiosity was great on the part of the congregation at seeing two fine appearing young men with Harry, but after the services were over they hurried away, giving Harry only time to ask Little to call at his rooms at the hotel about the middle of the afternoon. This gave time for Little to take lunch at the Carters', where the chief topic of conversation was the two strangers with Harry and what it might mean. The curious ones about the village, among whom were Baxter and Carter, himself, had that very morning or the evening before, learning that two strangers were in town with Harry, examined the hotel register and ascertained their names and that they were from Cambridge, Mass. The fact that Little had been invited by Harry to call at his rooms in the afternoon, they felt sure that they would learn whether it presaged any thing more than a casual visit. Little thought it did and so stated. Harris particularly noticed Bertha with her crutch and Harry told him everything he knew about the case, saying in effect that it was a case of malpractice and there was talk of sending her away for an operation to some hospital. Harris said that he would like to examine the fractured bones and see whether it would be necessary, and after dinner Harry took him to see her. She was quite confused by having a call from Harry and one of the strangers she saw at church, but learning that he had just received his diploma, was ready to practice, and had a taste for surgery and setting bones, Bertha consented for him to look at the injured limb.

After a thorough examination Harris stated it would be only a very simple matter to stretch the ligaments surrounding the injured spot to let the bones silp into place and that there was no need of her going away for the operation, but the sooner it was done the better. Ben, who had been an anxious observer of what was taking place, exclaimed: "Oh Doctor Harris, why don't you come here and begin practicing? If you can cure Bertha's lameness, you'll have all the business you can attend to."

Dr. Harris: "Perhaps I will if I can have this case to begin on. I'm here to look the situation over, and it appears quite promising."

Ben: "Good, good! Get one of Mr. Brandon's new rooms on the corner and then you will be right here in our section of the village."

Harris: "What's that Brandon? Have you rooms, such as I shall require?"

Harry: "Certainly Doctor, but I wanted you to wait till tomorrow and select your own location without any suggestions from me."

Harris: "All right, I'll decide that question on its merits. The boy however, has put an idea into my head. This part of the village seems the best for my purpose if I can get some good rooms and though its Sunday, is there any objection to my looking at your's?"

Harry: "None whatever. We'll stop as we go back." They bid the young lady good afternoon and departed. Ben went with them. He had asked permission of Harry, who hesitated about giving it when Harris said: "Oh let him go, Brandon. He may drop an idea of moment as he has. I'm here to learn what I can." Of course that settled it. Ben thereupon attached himself to Harris' coat sleeve, exclaiming: "Oh Doctor, are you sure that you can cure Bertha?"

Harris: "Beyond a doubt, boy."

Ben: "And you won't hurt her any, are you sure of that?"

Harris: "Not a bit. She won't feel it any, the least mite."

Ben: "Oh Doctor, you talk quite different from old Doctor Camomel. He didn't know this and he didn't that" (both laughed) "You are positive and have a look in your eyes that seems like you know what you are talking about." (Both laughed again). "Bertha is the best sister in the world," ("I can well believe it," Harris said). "And if you can cure her your fortune is made, for people will hear of it, far and near and you'll have all you can do. Have your office here on this street where I can be of some help to you. Do you think you'll come, Doctor?"

Harris: "I shouldn't wonder if I did, boy, but here we are at the building and we'll look at the rooms." After looking them over he said: "Brandon, this is the place in this building for mine and Evans' offices." "I suppose you'll have yours here too?"

Harry: "Yes, Doctor, and I have in mind something else on the first floor."

Harris: "Now boy, you can run home and tell that sister of yours that I'm coming here to settle and I will cure her."

Ben: "Oh good, good! Now I'll go and tell her." They were here interrupted by Little and Evans. Little had told him about the building and rooms for offices in it and Evans wished to see them before the morrow. Harry told Evans that he wished him to select his own location and his office. Evans was delighted as Harris was. Both settled on the rooms each would like, leaving the business part of the affair to be adjusted on the morrow. This was done satisfactorily to the parties and as the rooms had been thoroughly repaired and painted, the young men returned home, saying that they would come back to stay in about two weeks.

REMEMBERED

'Tis not by the things we say,
'Tis not by the boasts we make,
Not e'en by the kindly words we speak,
Nor yet by the oaths we take.
But by our deeds as we daily live,
The little gift, the helping hand,
Our upward aim, our honesty,
That our names in memory stand.
So if you would be remembered
With love and honor, too,
Remember 'tis not by the words we say,
But by the deeds we do.
So whether our memory be great or small
Depends on the paths we trod,
And not by our power as orator
With our fellowmen and with God.

SUMNER

Haying—Horse Trading—Visiting

Hay crop down our way mighty light and wasn't the writer some tickled when Sharkey won the fight.

Somewhere between not long ago and the other day Tink Farrar sold Sam Neil three veal calves.

About two weeks back Irvin Bartlett while out for a stroll, called on his sister, Mrs. Charles Russell and family, just across the red bridge in Hartford, and after supper the family, including Mr. and Mrs. Russell and sons, Emerson, Robert and George, offered to take Irvin most of the way home by boat, which was hitched above the bridge on the twenty mile river. A twelve foot boat to transport six passengers with the latter named makes the two hundred weight tremble a bit, took their places per order of Captain Russell and up the river they came, nearly one-half mile and all hands stepped out onto land owned by the Bartletts.

Tink Farrar traded horses with Mr. Prescott about two weeks ago; this one is a handsome black gentleman's driver.

It is reported in the dailies we are told that potatoes are being sold in Aroostook County for the ridiculous price of ten cts. per barrel and that live wire Claude Davis of Ridlonville, being wise to the fact, is almost living on the road in his large truck, accompanied by an assistant, making trips, taking one day and two nights and selling them in Rumford and Mexico to the stores or most anyone who has the price at fifty cents per bushel which makes it possible for one to purchase big quality spuds raised in the world famous potato county. In many of the suburban stores, at sixty cens per bushel.

Wednesday evening of last week all the way from Rumford came Mr. and Mrs. Gabe Durant down to Emerson Bartlett's. They had hardly stepped from the car when Mr. Durant told the writer that he was looking for a good horse that he could buy and that ancient saying, which still is in mind in some sections, came to my mind, "Do to your neighbor as you would like to be done by." I took a comfortable seat with Mr. Durant and we first called at Linn Farrar's, there being no one at home except a large shepherd dog, who showed us a full set of handsome teeth, and we never left our seats. Well knowing that if one's name is Farrar he always has at hand a horse, or horses, either for sale or trade and our next stop was at the home of Robert Millett, where Tink Farrar is boss farmer and does some horse and cattle business on his own hook, after making these gentlemen acquainted Mr. Farrar brought out the handsome black mentioned above. Well, they did not do business at this call and Mr. and Mrs. Durant called the evening following, but as there was $5.00 standing between, there was no trade made, and from this Tink showed them a handsome black western bred four year old colt that was being kept there on the place and owned by his brother, Linn Farrar. Telephones make near neighbors. Tink called his brother up who soon appeared upon the scene and a little later in the evening this colt weighing nearly thirteen hundred pounds, became the property of Mr. and Mrs. Durant, who returned to the Bartlett home, where they spent the remainder of the evening, and while there Mrs. Bartlett showed Mr.s Durant her live stock, who at first sight fell in love with a Jersey heifer that will be two years old Sept. 7th, and asked for a price which the writer was most sure would not interest the prospecting purchaser, nevertheless Mrs. Durant bought the Jersey.

Sunday callers at Bartlett's, July 24, Ike Doten of Sumner, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Russell and sons, Emerson, Robert and Georgie, of Hartford, Nicholas Kelly and two daughters and Isaac Gray, all of Mexico and Fred Horton of Rumford. Mr. and Mrs. Olpha Varney and little son, Junior, and daughter, Louise, of Sumner, Gordon O'Lary and son, Lewis, of Mexico, also Gordan's cousin, Mrs. Coleman, and husband of New York City. Gordon works in the Oxford Mill in Rumford and for many years was a fellow workman of the writer. Mr. Coleman works at construction work when there is anything doing, but reports conditions in his line something awful, having practically no work since the completion of the Empire State building of midwinter. This is some building says Mr. Coleman. It is an office building of eighty-six stories high, there are forty-six elevators, but there are at this time only eight being used as there are only a very small part of the mammoth structure occupied. In the union that he belongs to there are eighteen thousand members and at this time there are only one hundred and eighty-two that are working. Of course when there is work it means something for these people's wages are one dollar and ninety-two cents per hour, at the same time Mr. Coleman says he thinks he would be better off working for small pay with steady work. He said they expected a large job last autumn when the plans were drawn for tearing down the large hippodrome theater, one of the world's largest playhouses with a seating capacity of six thousand and five hundred people. But depression of business killed all hopes for present and not knowing how long. The building to be erected upon that site is to be one hundred and two stories high. Oh boy! The Colemans made the trip of four hundred and thirty-two miles from New York City to Rumford without as much as a blowout, they came through Cambridge, Somerville and Newton, Mass., over the Newburyport turnpike and so on through Portland. They report the heaviest traffic on their journey from Somerville, Mass., clear through to Portland, it being something awful. There must be something doing down in Maine in the tourist line. I would like to have put a string on the Colemans and held them several hours later, as we all like to chat with folks that have seen the cars and actually do meet the people, and I suppose I should have been well pleased with their four hours call within so short time after leaving New York's white way.

Linn Farrer finished haying for Benjamin Gerrish July 26th. Linn is ably assisted by Ike Doton, the king of horse rake riders and Irvin Bartlett.

Joseph Bosse has finished cutting the hay on the Thompson place and is now haying on Alfred Morrill's farm.

Perley Robinson often goes to Rumford with blueberries. It is said there are not many on Black Mountain this season on account of the drouth.

Two of Donald Varney's trucks are hauling spool stock from the Tebbets birch mill here to their spool mill at Locke Mills.

NOTES FROM COUNTY WORK

D. H. Ridley, County Agent; Evelyn M. Plumm[illegible]
Dora C. DeCoster, Home Demonstr[illegible]

A limited supply of poultry school programs are now on hand at the Farm Bureau Office. Poultrymen who have not received a copy through the mails may obtain one through this source.

Forty milk sample mailing kits are being sent out for the first time on Monday, July 25, by the new Dairy Record Club recently formed. Plans are now being made for a meeting of the forty dairy members sometime during the month of August.

Carroll R. DeCoster, a Norway poultryman and president of the Oxford County Poultry Improvement Association called a meeting of that body for Wednesday evening, July 27, 7:00 p. m., standard time, at the Farm Bureau Office, South Paris. Matters under discussion included (1) a flock certification plan for Maine, (2) An advertising plan for developing interest in Maine Poultry Stock, (3) The Summer Poultry School. H. L. Richardson, Extension Poultry Specialist, was the speaker of the evening.

Potato Disease meetings have been held in the communities of East Bethel, Bethel, South Paris, Denmark, Hiram, Brownfield, Fryeburg, North Paris, Sumner, Norway and Oxford. Seventy-four farmers have attended these meetings. The interest has been keen at all meetings. When the various diseases are pointed out it is easy to see why many potato fields look sick and irregular, while others look vigorous, green and even. A. K. Gardner, Crops Specialist, will be present at the meetings in Andover, North Rumford, Waterford and North Lovell.

"Rose bugs" have been reported doing some damage to beans and young apple trees. This destructive, chewing insect is difficult to kill. It is believed that arsenate of lead poison can be made much more effective against them if enough molasses is added to sweeten the spray mixture.

Dr. L. C. Norris, research professor of poultry nutrition, Cornell University, will discuss poultry feeding in three talks to be given at Orono at the poultry school, August 15 and 16. Dr. Norris, who is rated as one of the leading research workers, will discuss the protein, mineral, and vitamin requirements in poultry feeding. The committee has announced that adequate time will be devoted to round table discussion after each one of the talks. Complete programs of the two-day session are now being mailed to interested poultrymen in the state.

Better Potato Prices Possible This Fall

Severe heat in western potato growing states, which carries with it the possibilities for better prices for Maine potatoes, has increased the interest of Maine growers in the round table discussion to be held in connection with the American Institute of Cooperation meeting in Durham, N. H., August 2-5, according to Maurice D. Jones of the College of Agriculture. "Maine growers are interested," Professor Jones says, "because the heads of the largest potato marketing and distributing organizations in the country will be represented at the meeting which comes to New England for the first time in the history of the Institute."

Andrew J. Beck of the American Fruit Growers, Inc., Washburn, Maine, and Charles H. Merchant, head of the department of agricultural economics, Orono, will discuss quality in potatoes and its relation to potato prices. Milton E. Smith, a potato grower at Presque Isle, and Harry Umphrey, of the American Fruit Growers in Washburn, will discuss how growers can meet the needs of the chain store from the viewpoint of the producer of the specialized potato area. W. R. Thompson of Caribou will discuss the problems involved in the National organization of potato marketing facilities. Harvey A. Baum, vice-president and general manager, Atlantic Commission Co., New York City, will discuss the value of chain store purchasing departments as sales agencies for growers.

Oxford County 4-H Club Field Day

August 10, clubs will gather at Papoose Pond, Waterford, for their annual picnic. The committee met on May 24 and planned the program:

9:00 to 11:00 (E. S. T.)—Baseball, Swimming, Miscellaneous Games, Horseshoe Tournament.
11:00 to 12:00—Water Sports.
12:00 to 12:30—Lunch.
12:30 to 1:00—Assembly. Songs and Cheers by Clubs.
1:00 to 2:30—Field Events.
2:30—Baseball.

The following people were chosen to have charge of the events:

Chairman—Austin Stearns, Jr.
Baseball—Ralph Knight.
Water Sports—Edward Green.

Miscellaneous Games—[illegible]
Registration of Clubs—Mrs. Edith Buck.
Registration of Sports—[illegible] Ingwood.
Inspector of Grounds—[illegible]

Horseshoe Tournament—[illegible]

Clubs should try and have their entry blanks in by August 6. We want every club well represented in these sports.

National 4-H Club Radio Broadcast

On August 6, 1932, 12:30 to 1:30 p. m., Eastern Standard Time, the National 4-H Club radio program will feature talks concerning the activities of farm boys' and girls' club members that have some economic or practical value. Extension work in farm economics, including adjustments in farm operations to meet changing conditions and the keeping of business records to determine the most productive commodities, has become well established for adult farmers. That this type of Extension teaching also has considerable value in 4-H Club work will be discussed in a talk entitled "Farm Economics Help Older Club Members" to be given by James K. Harris, a 4-H Club member of ten years standing in Ohio.

The National 4-H music achievement list will be broadcast at this time. Club members will be asked to identify for their own information music played by the U. S. Marine Band.

933,000 Boys and Gris in 4-H Clubs This Year

Nearly 900,000 boys and girls have been enrolled in the 4-H Clubs for 1932, according to the estimates we received from the state directors of Extension work in May. This has meant hard work and sacrifices from Extension agents. It has meant unselfish service from those loyal volunteer leaders who have given so generously for them.

Potato Disease Meetings Being Held

Potato growers, farmers and 4-H boys are tending out well on the group of potato meetings being held this week and next in nineteen communities. Degeneration diseases are being explained and pointed out on fields of potatoes at which meetings are held. Causes of many skip hills and uneven pieces are being shown and the technique of spraying, dusting, and seed treating explained. One point of interest at East Bethel was the magnesium deficiency plot carried by G. K. Hastings & Sons. They also put on a spraying demonstration with a horse-drawn power sprayer. Other meetings have been held as follows:

July 19—South Paris at A. B. Talbot & Son's; Bethel at Ernest Luxton's.
July 20—Denmark, at Ralph Deering's; Hiram at A. M. Noble's.
July 21—Brownfield at C. E. Spring's; Fryeburg, at E. C. Buzzell's.
July 22—North Paris at L. J. Abbott's; Sumner, at H. L. Bisbee's.
July 25—Norway, at A. H. Holman's; Oxford at Harry Andrews'.
July 25—Andover, at Clarence Bailey's; North Rumford, at Willard Wyman's.
July 26—North Lovell, at Fred Macon's; Waterford, at B. W. Sanderson's.

Meetings will be held:

July 29—Buckfield, A. M., 10:00 E. S. T., Warren Buck's; Canton, P. M., 2:00 E. S. T., A. H. Stevens'.
July 30—Mexico, A. M., 10:30 D. S. T., L. L. Haines'; Peru, P. M., 2:00 D. S. T., Arno Howard's.

A long list of speakers are under consideration by members of the Pomona Grange and Farm Bureau Field Day committee from which it is hoped an early announcement can be made of speakers for the Songo Pond field day, Bethel. The date of the field day has been previously announced as Saturday, August 20.

Some dairymen are considering pasturing their second crop or "rowen" after th first hay crop is removed from their fields. This practice seems worthy of recommendation since it does not shorten the winter's supply of hay and at the same time, provides the equivalent to good June pasture at a time when old pastures are drying up. There are many arguments in favor of fencing and concentrated grazing to prevent grass from getting too hard and unpalatable with resulting waste. The cows can then be rotated to other similar plots, giving the preceding plot a rest. Let the cows do the haying. They will get more hay and get it when it will make most milk.

In connection with woodlot improvement and the establishment of woodlot improvement demonstrations plots, the County Agent reports a fairly good distribution of these plots over the county. There are some areas, however, that will be considered especially in locating demonstrating areas for another year. These will incude Oxford Brownfield, Lovell, Sweden, Newry, Dixfield, North Norway and Hebron. Any farmers or foresters in these towns who would like to discuss the various phases of woodlot improvement, such as thinning, weeding improvement, cuttting and pruning, please drop a card to your County agent, D. H. Ridley, at South Paris.

A Better Blueberry contest under the supervision of the Maine Experiment Station is underway in which money prizes will be given to those sending in the best specimens of blueberries. A single bunch is all that is needed and may be either from a low bush or high bush species. Your County Agent has jars complete with formaldehyde solution for holding the sample. Write for complete information.

The "Arrangement of Cut Flowers" was the topic discussed by Miss Edna Cobb, Home Management Specialist of the University of Maine, at the South Paris Grange Hall. Farm Bureau leaders from all over the county came for this training. Each in turn will go back to her own community and pass on what she learned to the local Farm Bureau group. Representatives were present from East Bethel, Canton Point, Canton, North Rumford, Buckfield, East Peru, West Peru, Peru, Middle Intervale, Mexico, Norway, South Paris, Bryant Pond, Roxbury, Bethel, Waterford and North Paris. "Keep your arrangement simple" says Miss Cobb, "and your results are likely to be pleasing." The simple vases are always the best. The container should serve to emphasize the flowers and not attract the eye to itself. Dried beef or pickle jars of plain glass are often better as flower receptacles than expensive vases.

The community committee meetings were given an auspicious start in Norway and South Paris by the presence of Miss Estelle Nason, the Home Demonstration Agent Leader. When questioned what home-makers might do to add to the family income, Miss Nason says, "Those who have studied both products and markets tell us that sale value is greatest for articles which have local significance and interest. "However," she added, "articles should be developed which aren't already being sold by scores of others. "If you are living on the coast," she continued, "the gathering of sea moss may be a possibility. This is used in the making of blancmange and would have the local significance of coming from the coast of Maine. Certain grasses, dried flowers, and ferns find a sale in city markets. Maine has grasses and ferns similar to what other states are selling. The 'Pine Tree State' is noted for its lumber industry. Fir balsam for pillows, pine cones for fireplaces, and walking sticks for mountain climbing sections offer possibilities. Then too, there is at present great interest in the revival of the crafts of some years ago. Have you the candle moulds in your attic that were used by your grandmother. The making of beeswax or bayberry candles might be a possibility. Added significance would be gained if candles could be moulded before the buyer."

The program at the Ridge Hall was under the personal direction of E. Carlton Hotchkiss, ably assisted by Albert C. Perry, both of Old Greenwich, Conn. Between the reels vocal selections were rendered by the Misses Josephine Bailey, Betty Denson, Marie Perry, Mary Lucke and Helen Hotchkiss. An interesting shadowgraph "The Operation", was presented by Mrs. Randall Weeks and her associates. New England Recreational Campaign

Nearly twenty thousand inquiries, of which approximately one thousand have been specific requests for helps in planning Maine vacations, have been turned over to the State of Maine Publicity Bureau by the New England Council since the Council's all-New England recreational advertising campaign began in March.

This year for the first time a campaign to advertise New England as a whole is being carried on. The campaign is one of the projects of the Council, which organized, financed and managed the campaign through the Recreational Development Committee, of which Colonel William A. Barron of Crawford Notch, N. H., is chairman. Reporting on the results of the campaign to date, Mr. Ricker explained how the State of Maine Publicity Bureau is taking advantage, on behalf of Maine, of the values created by the all-New England campaign.

"From the inception of the campaign," Mr. Ricker, member of the Councils Recreational Development Commitee, said, "the Council and the State of Maine Publicity Bureau have worked closely together to make the most of this campaign for Maine recreational interests. Through its manager, Harrie B. Coe, the Bureau cooperated with the Council in preparing the booklet 'Your New England Vacation', of which 65,000 copies have been distributed. Through arrangements with the Bureau, all inquiries received by the Council for information about Maine are forwarded to the Bureau the same day they are received. These the Bureau and its efficient staff follow up promptly with specific information and service. There have been approximately 1,000 of these among the 20,000 inquiries forwarded to the Bureau by the Council.

"In thus turning hundreds of potential customers toward Maine—customers who are already so 'sold' on Maine that they have expressed a definite preference for it—the New England Council has performed definite service for the business interests of this state worth far more than the small sum which Maine invests annually in the support of the Council.

"It should be remembered that this recreational promotion work is only one of the functions carried on by the Council. Many Maine industries have been benefitted both directly and indirectly by the Council's research work, industrial promotion and community development programs."

In addition to routing nearly 20,000 recreational inquiries to Maine, Mr. Ricker pointed out, the Council has sent its own booklet to each of these 20,000 would-be vacationists. This booklet contains a directory of Maine recreational sales literature—sixty-five booklets in all from this state—and sources of information, as well as sections on hiking in Maine, fishing and hunting, and photographs of historical scenes, including the Black Mansion at Ellsworth. The booklet contains forty-seven references to Maine in addition to the listings of sixty-five Maine booklets.

In its publicity campaign backing up the advertising campaign, the Council has distributed to papers and periodicals all over the country material about Maine as well as photographs of Maine recreational scenes.

The Way We Look at it

We look upon our work as an opportunity to be of service. It has practically the same problems as any other business or profession and is subject in the same way to common sense and fair dealing. But we think it gives unusual scope for sympathy and thoughtfulness, and these qualities have a large part in the ideal we set for ourselves.

Chevrolet 1½-ton Stake Truck on 131" wheelbase with hinged side gates $700

The most powerful and most economical low-priced truck you can buy

It takes an exceptionally good truck to meet today's hauling needs. It must be capable of long runs at high speed. It must be powered to let the driver ignore road conditions. It must be able to operate with a minimum of time out for servicing, and with the lowest possible consumption of gasoline and oil. Add to these features big capacity, driver comfort and long life, and you have pictured the ideal hauling unit. And what's more, you have an accurate description of Chevrolet's new line of trucks—the most powerful and economical low-priced trucks you can buy! It's the six-cylinder engine that makes these trucks so efficient—and so popular. Six-cylinder smoothness reduces wear on all truck parts. Six-cylinder power and speed make possible bigger bodies with a larger bulk capacity. Six-cylinder flexibility gives you a faster power response. Today you can get these six-cylinder advantages at the lowest prices in Chevrolet history!

CENTRAL MAINE POWER COMPANY
SERVES
49,924 HOMES • 11,958 FARMS
10,846 STORES AND OFFICES
1,877 INDUSTRIES
Serving 75,000 different customers with electric light and power is a pretty steady job.
These are all basic enterprises—homes, industries, business establishments, factories, stores, offices and the like. When it comes night they turn on lights; in the daytime they use electricity to run their machinery, their elevators, their telephones, their office instruments, X-ray machines, and thousands of other office, store and industrial apparatus.
If a few industries are on part time, it little affects the 1877 as a whole; if a few stores or offices are a bit quieter than usual, it little affects the 10,846 as a whole.
And as for the 61,882 farm and city homes, they are using over 8 PER CENT MORE ELECTRICITY THIS YEAR THAN LAST.
The modern housewife realizes that no labor is as cheap as her electric cook, her electric sweep, her electric refrigerator, her electric iron, and her various other electric household servants that work for as little as a few cents an hour.
That's why electric earnings remain fairly steady in good times and bad; that's why every stockholder in Central Maine Power Company has received every dividend check on time and OUT OF EARNINGS.
